Q: No module named 'SocketIO._connection' I am writing a script which does the following (a) Subscribe to a topic and receive data on the topic (b) Pass the received data on topic to all connected clients But I need to read the messages from the clients. So I need to know what socket is the client connected to. But there is no module SocketIO.connection. I even have `client.__name__` but can't use it as it does not exist (I suppose).

A: Your problem is that the module `SocketIO` is being imported before your module is defined. Import `SocketIO.connection` AFTER importing your module (or on top of your module's import list). I recommend using a library like `importlib.reload_module()` to reload a module with a different package/submodule. Coke Oven And Stove 09e8f5149f
