Glossary Within the PICTURE Network this page contains definitions and a glossary of technical terms used in the context of governance and financial accountability. Accounting and accountability are closely related terms and both carry positive connotations. Accounting is the activity of recording income and expenditure and thus giving assurance to stakeholders regarding the management of their resources and a valid means of comparison. Accountability is the process of holding the management of an organisation responsible for its decisions and actions. It is the mechanism through which the people of an organisation are kept informed about what is going on. Accountabilities and their respective linkages with Accountants are explained in detail in the Governance & Accountability in the Public Sector section of the PICTURE Network. Governance describes the overall process of decision-making that creates the values and structures within a system, including the policies that shape the environment. Governance is the process that creates the guidelines and structures of a given environment. It seeks to establish and ensure the linkages of trust and accountability that have emerged through the process of decision-making. For more information please refer to the Governance section of the PICTURE Network. Financial accountability is the process of responding to stakeholders and the public for the use of public money (financial resources). Accountability primarily focuses on the core values of resources, transparency and public interest. The financial outcomes of decision-making are not the primary aim of financial accountability. Rights and obligations are the basic building blocks of responsibilities and accountabilities. It is through the formal recognition of these rights and obligations that people can be held accountable for the way they act. Rights and obligations are formal and legal recognition. They are established by the law. Responsibility is the main responsibility of governance and accountability. Responsibility is an organisational and individual duty to perform a certain action and it is a fundamental basis for accountability. It refers to the legal and moral obligations associated with a certain action that is the basis of the relationships in a given environment. Accountability within a specified or defined environment is the duty of an individual and/or organisation to respond to the actions of the other parties in the environment. This includes the duty to report on the use of public resources and to be open about the decision-making process that led to the use of those resources. Accountants are the primary force for the formalisation and recognition of accountability through the formation and regulation of the Accountant profession. While it has not been demonstrated that the age of an insect is related to resistance to infection by Plasmodium spp., several authors have proposed that the age-related deterioration of the immune system is correlated with Plasmodium spp. infection \[[@CR28], [@CR29], [@CR32]\]. However, the literature lacks adequate data for an analysis of this correlation. Although aging has been associated with a decrease in the number of circulating immune cells, indicating decreased cell functionality, the relationship between the age of A. albopictus and susceptibility to P. vivax and P. falciparum remains to be clarified. Conclusions {#Sec7} ===== In this study, more than 50% of the wild A. albopictus was found to be resistant to at least one of the four strains of P. vivax, confirming previous findings. The same proportion of resistance to P. falciparum was also observed. Moreover, for some of the resistant A. albopictus specimens, the parasite was found to be spreading rapidly, with clinical manifestations. The effectiveness of this vector in the dissemination of the parasite depends on several factors, including the levels of inoculum and age of the insect. However, this study highlights the need for a multidisciplinary approach to find solutions to these problems. Competing interests The authors declare that they have no competing interests. Authors' contributions EGC made the analysis of the blood samples. TMA made the clinical assessment of the patients. GBS has performed molecular analysis. EGC, TMA, and GBS wrote the manuscript. NMZ and CSW critically reviewed the manuscript. All authors read and approved the final manuscript.
