Air Quality Management Area Reviews The Air Quality Management Area program is an important part of meeting the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) and federal and state requirements. The specific legal requirements for each regulated pollutant (acid, asbestos, lead, mercury, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxide, ozone, particulate matter) are found on the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) website. The two most significant pollutants regulated in the Commonwealth are ozone and particulate matter. Particulate matter and ozone are different pollutants; some areas need to address both pollution while other areas only need to address particulate matter. Both ozone and particulate matter have serious health effects and thus must be controlled.
