American Jewish Messianism (AJM) is a progressive religious movement affiliated with Messianic Judaism and active in the United States. It was founded in the early 1990s by a young American Messianic Rabbi called Ezra Borovsky, who was born in Soviet-ruled Ukraine in 1954. In 1991, the first official meeting of the AJM was held at the American Jewish University in Los Angeles, California. The movement held an official convention in Los Angeles in 1996 and hosted the annual AJM convention until 2010. In 2007, the movement held its 20th annual convention at American Jewish University in Los Angeles. The AJM has its own journal and website, and has made efforts to connect with Messianic groups in other countries. The AJM movement was recognized by the Union of Messianic Jewish Congregations in 1997.
