I am asking this because I see in the documentation React Router 4 uses a server-side-rendering-plugin and ReactDOMServer.renderToString, does JHipster use the same kind of approach for rendering? A: JHipster uses

ReactDOMServer.renderToString (As per you can use any renderer you want: ReactDOMServer.renderToString(, document.getElementById('container')); Cerebral cavernous malformations and pregnancy--lessons learned from a case of a pregnant woman with bilateral periventricular lesions. A 22-year-old primipara, presented to the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Naples, with a progressive feeling of heaviness and blurred vision. She was referred for magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) to exclude intracranial hypertension. MRI scan disclosed the presence of two brain lesions in her right posterior parietal lobe (R-PPL) and a left posterior parietal lobe (L-PPL) with multiple hemorrhagic foci and several cysts. The L-PPL lesion had a large arterial component connected to the middle cerebral artery M3 segment, in correspondence with the confluence of the posterior cerebral artery and superior sagittal sinus. MRI also revealed a subependym d0c515b9f4
