I have an odd bug in FireFox where the green Out Of This World badge for an accepted answer is completely missing and so it looks like a green x instead. I'm on version 10.0.2 of the browser on Win7. A: This is fixed with the June 2018 build of Firefox. This bug was caused by a code change that moved the entire badge rendering to a helper class we previously used for other non-badge purposes. This code was never properly tested or even reviewed, so it was breaking in little ways. Once we were able to get it working again, we did a full cleanup of our rendering code for badges, and fixed the others that were broken. This shouldn't happen any more. The invention is based upon a hand tool for gripping and releasing a tool holder. Such a tool is known from U.S. Pat. No. 3,934,561. It is suitable for use in holding tool holders which have a tool receiving chamber at the top into which a blade is inserted. This tool holder is held by a tool clamp, which is secured by screws. To release the tool, the holder has a downwardly extending resilient member, which can be spread by hand by means of a screwdriver or of a tool. To secure the tool clamp, the screw has an inner thread, which extends over a guide collar on the tool holder. By rotating the screw, a clamping plate, on which the screw engages, is moved along the guide collar. The tool holder must then be turned relative to the clamping plate in order to release the tool. In a tool which has another securement option, it is advantageous when the tool can be secured in the tool holder by means of a thrust lug. If the tool is secured in the holder by means of a bolt, the bolt cannot be releasably tightened, so cultivar of Begonia plant, botanically known as Begonia x tuberhybrida and hereinafter referred to by the name 'Sunbelk'. The new Begonia is a product of a planned breeding program conducted by the Inventors in Vertieral, Denmark. The objective of the breeding program is to create new freely-branching Begonia cultivars with unique and attractive flower coloration and good garden performance.

The new Begonia originated from a cross-pollination made by
