If you think you have figured it out and it doesn't stay. Saturday, January 5, 2010 The pool is at the south end of the ranch, and in late March an above-ground pool was installed. Today was the day to fill up the pool. My wife is home on leave from college and our son and his wife showed up, too. It was exciting to have a full pool to play in. I sat at the table and had hot tea in my mug. The kids had cold drinks in their mugs. The pool is basically outdoors but with large walls on three sides. There's also a tiki hut on one side. My wife set up the next batch of tiles to lay around the pool. The kids played in the water and we were having fun. The pool has a jacuzzi and hot tub, too. The lawn was green and we had plenty of room to play. In the end, we might stick with this pool and mow over the grass to keep it green and clear. We'll probably get it filled in by April. Maybe it's a new thing? Maybe it's like a backyard spa?
