“The American public wants a president who is safe and sound. This is a national security matter in the truest sense. The president is as safe as he is because of an incredible, dedicated team of federal law enforcement officials,” Giuliani said during an interview on MSNBC’s Morning Joe.

ADVERTISEMENT The former mayor of New York, who has ties to President Trump's legal team, said the president's team had no indication that Trump would be under criminal investigation as a result of the Cohen probe. “We heard about it yesterday, but that’s probably because Cohen was going to be testifying about it,” he added. “I don’t think that’s ever been a part of our discussions, to know about things like that in advance,” Giuliani said. “There is no collusion, there is no obstruction. There’s a million reasons to investigate these other things, but I don’t think it was meant to be.” The former New York City mayor has extensive ties to President Trump's legal team, and he reportedly discussed potential defenses for Trump with the president in 2017. Among those defenses is a legal theory espoused by both Rudy Giuliani and Trump himself that the president cannot be charged with obstruction of justice as Mueller can only make a determination on charges of obstruction once he concludes his investigation. The U.S. attorney's office in the Southern District of New York issued a subpoena to Cohen on Monday, ordering him to turn over documents related to the office's investigation into Trump. longtime confidant to Trump, and the president personally reimbursed Cohen for the $130,000 payoff to porn actress Stormy Daniels in 2016. The president has acknowledged the payment was made to influence the outcome of the presidential election. Fireworks explode at midnight Parades, concerts, light displays and fireworks greet the midnight hour tonight on All Saints' Day, which marks the passing of 2000 years since the birth of Christ. This year's celebrations on the shores of Lake Victoria will be led by the Maasai community in Arusha. "When we pass through the villages, we pass through the Catholic church and turn on the lights. On the roadside, the Maasai people will show off their wares. They may have brass, they may have coal, or precious stones or skins," said

Plasma cell myeloma of monoclonal gammopathy of undetermined significance (MGUS): is it malignant? Monoclonal gammopathy of undetermined significance (MGUS) is considered a premalignant stage of plasma cell myeloma. Forty-three patients with plasma cell myeloma and MGUS (median follow-up, 7 years) were treated with either alkylating agents or a combination of alkylating agents, VP-16, and CCNU. None of 12 patients treated with an alkylating agent had progression, whereas eight (88%) of nine treated with the alkylating agent combination had progression (P less than .05). Patients with a subtype of MGUS (e.g., IgA) or International Prognostic Index score of less than 1 had an improved disease-free survival as compared with those with either MGUS (IgG) (P less than .05) or a score of more than 1 (P less than .05). A predictive model of malignancy in plasma cell myeloma was developed in which nine patients with an IgG-MGUS and a score of more than 1 were identified as a group with a high risk of progression to plasma cell myeloma. Patients with an IgA-MGUS, an absence of anemia, and a score of less than 1 were identified as a group with a low risk of progression to plasma cell myeloma (five-year disease-free survival, 96%). Aggressive therapy may be required for the subset of patients with either IgG-MGUS or a score of more than 1 (e.g., IgG myeloma with a translocation t(11;14) or IgA myeloma with an absence of anemia).

Conversely, patients with MGUS with IgA, anemia, and a score of less than 1 may have a lower risk of progression to plasma cell myeloma and may require less aggressive therapy.
