By James White | Posted 5 Aug 2017 At the beginning of 2017, it was announced that actor Chris Pine was set to star as Steve Trevor in the upcoming Steve Jobs biopic, biopic that will see Benedict Cumberbatch portray the late Apple co-founder. Now, Fox has announced that Cumberbatch is in talks to take on the role of Mark Zuckerberg in a planned film about the social network. Sources say that the biopic will be set in the early days of the site, and is looking to bring in a real-life Zuckerberg as Zuckerberg will be in his 20s at the time. Matthew Weiner will be helming. The script was written by Aaron Sorkin, who will also be producing with his The Newsroom colleague David Kohan through Kohan's recently struck deal with Universal. Fox has long kept a marked distance from Weiner's previous projects, but the news that he would be teaming with Sorkin to carry out a modern-day take on Facebook was certainly welcomed by the studio. Weiner, who is best known for his work on the TV series The Sopranos, is looking to use his experience of working at 20th Century Fox Television to bring his skills as a writer and producer to the movie adaptation of Mark Zuckerberg. Cumberbatch and Weiner are currently working on Steve Jobs before production can begin on the project, a source told Variety, which will see Cumberbatch play the dying CEO of Apple, while Weiner will play d0c515b9f4
