This answers is very good and very relevant to my code and question (that is where my question is based in). But this answer uses the new (in 2013) kendo.files api. Which, as far as I know, doesn't exist anymore. The javascript changed the target of the uploader from to . So... Is there any other way to do what the above answer does? I've tried the things the answer mentions (and the articles in the answer), but all in vain. A: I've found a solution. After some digging, I stumbled upon the kendo.file.data.params function. Inside that I found the name property,

SteamAPI.RestartAppIfNecessary("48240") DLL SteamApi.dll. This DLL is part of the Steam API (and is required for some features). Edit an audio file. SteamAPI RestartAppIfNecessary.

SteamAPI.RestartAppIfNecessary() checks if the Steam client is running, and will start it if it's not. SteamAPI.RestartAppIfNecessary(AppId_t) . SteamAPI.RestartAppIfNecessary() returns true if the application is launched directly by double-clicking. A: Steam already has a built-in way of restarting your application: the startup function. You don't actually need any code here, just load and start it up. (It might be in some other file, but I do not know where.) A way to use it would look like this: #include "SteamAPI_Init.h" #include "Steamworks.h" CSteamworksClient steamworks; bool StartupSteam() { return steamworks.Open(); } bool ShutdownSteam() { return steamworks.close(); } // Use the steamworks object you created from the above bool startup = StartupSteam(); if (!startup ) return false; // Determine version bool function_to_call = true; if ( version[ 0 ] > 0 ) { function_to_call = function_to_call && steamworks.Version() >= ( uint )version[ 0 ] && steamworks.Version() >= ( uint )version[ 0 ] }
