Download a free trial version of the best VoIP and telephony software " SIP and Asterisk " to make it easier to make and manage calls from desk phone, tablet, or mobile. Suitable for schools, health care facilities, small and medium-sized businesses, law enforcement agencies, and emergency responders. You can create one-way or two-way IVR integrations, along with custom greetings, IVR menus, and the ability to add your own application programming interface (API) to the network, all without creating a single line of code. Record and play IVR greetings, and even use them as automated responses. Supports up to 600 users. Create single or multi-user multi-number IVR services that integrate with every business phone system or PBX, including Cisco, Motorola, Nortel, Motorola, Cisco, Cisco and more. Records as a sound wave or MP3 file (works best for short IVR recordings or recordings you want to play back over the phone). Provides a wide array of recording options, including: Short recordings - for those with limited storage or slow Internet connections. Long recordings (more than 3 minutes) - for those with large networks, lots of IVR services, and/or slow Internet connections. Audible recordings - great for those with advanced recording software. Choose from a range of audio quality settings. Record in stereo or mono. Record in MP3 format or save in a wave file (.wav). Records in multiple formats, including WAV, MP3, or AVI. Supports IVR formats such as AT&T and Lucent (Lucent Technology), AT&T, Lucent, Vaniman and NANP (National Automatic Numbering Protocol), and many other business IVR platforms. Advanced features provide the ability to record and play back calls in a manner that simulates a human answering the phone. Hint: Since this trial version doesn't have voice recognition, you'll need the complete software to use the voice recognition features. Learn more about the features d0c515b9f4
